Step up to today's information demands.

Discovery efforts now involve an increasing number of documents. Given the nature of litigation, most of this content is unstructured and nearly all of these documents are created electronically. Faced with such a deluge of information, legal teams must get beyond search and compilation in order to identify what's most important—without missing key facts.

Aubice gives you the ability to discover more. You'll quickly gain the analysis you need to make smart, well-informed decisions.

Start with a clean slate.

Aubice ESD™ approaches your data with no preconceptions because the most important discoveries are often found in areas you had not initially considered. Our proprietary data connection algorithms go beyond predefined words and phrases, instantly analyzing all your data—structured and unstructured—to provide you with a visual road map of trends, irregularities and key findings.

Gain more comprehensive results — at far lower costs.

With Aubice, you are not limited by your choice of keywords or phrases—we create an index based on a complete analysis of your discovery data. Our solution automatically cross-references data and presents results in an organized histogram, so you can make data-driven assessments at a fraction of the expense. By eliminating manual processes and their corresponding error rates, you'll also increase the accuracy of your results.

Make the correlations needed to assess cases faster.

Our intuitive, easy-to-navigate interface makes it easy for researchers to interact with discovery data, so your in-house experts can quickly drill down into the most relevant facts—gaining insights you might never have anticipated. Your new-found knowledge will enable you to chart a well-informed course of legal action:
